Mr. Chan,
The Editor,
Fun Times Magazine.

Dear Mr. Chan,

I am writing this letter to express my disappointment with the new edition of Fun Times Magazine.

Having been an avid reader for the last six years, I look forward to the new issue every month. The Animal Corner page always interests me and I learn a lot about the lives of animals from all around the world. You can imagine my shock when I discovered that Animal Corner had been replaced by a page called Kitchen Cooking! I hate cooking, I'd burn water!

As if this isn't bad enough, my favourite page Puzzles & Games is also missing and in it's place is a cartoon drawing activity. I'm hopeless at drawing!

I really hope that you will include Animal Corner and Puzzles & Games in the next edition. If not, I'm afraid that I will no longer purchase your magazine. I will save the money instead.

Yours sincerely,
Peter Lee

12. What is the purpose of this letter?

1. To express disappointment with the editor
2. To write his own positive opinion
3. To ask for an appointment with the editor

1. News and matters around the world
2. Animals and wildlife
3. Fashion and games
4. Variety
5. Puzzles and games

14. What is the main reason that Peter Lee has the issue?

1. The Kitchen Cooking had been replaced.
2. His favorite parts are substituted.
3. The new edition is boring.
4. The Cartoon drawing activity is missing.
5. He hates cooking.

15. Will Peter Lee continue buying the magazine?

1. Yes, but not in a long period.
2. Definitely not.
3. Only if Animal Corner is back.
4. Not mentioned.
5. Yes, he will.

The Horse

The horse was first domesticated more than 4,000 years ago, but its association with human beings goes back far earlier, to the time when stone-age people hunted horses for their meat. For a long time, people only used horses for food. Then, after the wheel was invented, people got the idea of using horses to pull war chariots, and later heavier vehicles. It was even later before people started riding on horses' backs, as primitive horses were too small to carry the weight of a human being. Once horses were domesticated, they gave any group of people who had them a tremendous advantage over people who didn't. The advantage was especially great over people who had never seen mounted riders before.

16. What is the main idea of this passage?

1. Horses have many benefits since the past.
2. The beginning of horse riding.
3. The story of horses and human beings.
4. Horses are domesticated to be larger.
5. Long relationship between horses and human beings.

17. The first use for horses other than for food was probably _____.

1. hunted for horse meat
2. for carrying heavy loads
3. seen in war
4. for horse racing
5. for riding on the horseback

18. After people had been keeping horses for a while, _____.

1. horses are used to pull chariots.
2. people started riding on horses' backs.
3. horses became smaller.
4. they stopped eating horse meat.
5. horses became larger.

19. One advantage people got from having horses was that _____.

1. People could transport quickly over great distances.
2. Horses ran very fast.
3. People no longer had to hunt.
4. Horses helped keeping dangerous animals away from their villages.
5. People domesticated horses to become larger.

20. People seeing a man in horseback for the first time _____.

1. were curious about its safety
2. were always frightened
3. prompted to voyage in a long distance
4. reached for their armors
5. thought it was the funniest thing they had ever seen

Tsunami

Tsunamis are one of the world's most powerful natural forces. They can swallow up islands in minutes. They can flood and destroy villages. They can create huge amounts of damage.

But do you know exactly what a tsunami (pronounced soo-NAH-mee) is? They are huge, mighty waves in the ocean that grow as they reach the shore. Most tsunamis are actually caused by earthquakes. An earthquake happens when a big piece of the Earth's crust suddenly shifts. Basically, the Earth's crust is made up of large pieces called tectonic plates. These plates usually grind together. But sometimes, the plates get stuck. The pressure builds and they suddenly get slammed and are pushed into a new position. When the ocean floor moves, it creates big holes. The water floods in to fill these holes. When the water moves that quickly, it creates a huge wave. This is how tsunamis are born!

Other natural disasters like landslides, volcanic eruptions, and glaciers breaking off can also cause tsunamis. Once the water starts moving because of the force of the disaster, large waves begin to ripple out. These waves can move very fast. They have been recorded at speeds up to 500 miles per hour! They can also move across very long distances.

At first, the waves of the tsunami may not seem that tall. That's because when the waves travel through the deep parts of the ocean, the top of each wave is very short. But as that wave approaches shallower water, it grows in height. Remember, the tsunami travels quickly. If you are sitting on a beach, you may not see the wave coming at first. But when the wave arrives, it will be like a towering wall of water. Some waves are as tall as 100 feet high. This wave will rush in and flood the area within minutes. It may be followed by other waves as well.

Though tsunamis can happen anywhere, they usually occur in specific areas like the Pacific Ocean. The countries along the coastline like Japan, Chile, or even the United States are more at risk. The biggest tsunami ever recorded happened in 1958 in Lituya Bay, Alaska. The massive wave was over 1,720 feet tall, and it wiped out trees, vegetation, and everything else in its way.
