Part II: Reading Comprehension (Items 11 – 25)

The Oregon Trail

During the 1840s, 1850s, and 1860s, tens of thousands of American families headed west. They followed a string of natural landmarks that became known as the Oregon Trail a 2,000-mile path between Missouri and Oregon. The journey was dangerous, and the pioneers endured many hardships in their quest to reach California or the Oregon Territory.

Families often used covered wagons to make the journey west. They would load up as many supplies as they could inside the wagons. Because there was seldom any room left, most people walked on foot the whole way.

It often took up to six months to make the journey. Though some people headed west for the gold, most went in search of farmland. The government was giving away land in as effort to get people to colonize the western territories.

There were many perils on the trail. River crossings were especially dangerous. The wagons themselves offered little protection against thunderstorm. And if the journey took too long, there was the danger of getting caught on the trail during winter. This is what happened to the Donner party in 1846 as they were making their way through the Sierra Mountains. The trail was blocked by snow and they were forced to wait out the winter on the near side of the mountain. Of the 81 people who started on that journey, only 45 survived the winter.

April

Have you remembered the day you cried silently? The day you thought you'll give up? But look at yourself now; you're still fighting, you're still standing, and you're still hoping. You're a living testimony that there's hope after falling and laugh after crying. It could be that you haven't fully achieved your dream life yet but the good thing is that you're continuously trying and trying. I hope everyone can be brave like you and courageous as you deal with the cruelness of life. Keep praying, keep hoping, keep fighting, and keep waiting your time is coming!

May

May you continue being kind even though others are being cruel to you. You chose to be happy even in tough times and you chose to forgive for the sake of your love ones. You truly deserve the happiness you've been longing to. Don't put too much pressure on yourself, allow yourself to grow and learn through falling and failing. Always remember that your value doesn't decrease based on someone's inability to see your worth. You're worth it and God loves you!

COVID-19

Coronavirus (or, as doctors and scientists call it, COVID-19) has been part of everyone's life since mid-March 2020, when most schools, businesses, and communities quickly changed how they operated to prevent the spread of the virus. Because the disease infected a large number of people all over the world, experts call this a pandemic.

For over a year, many kids attended school at least partly from their houses; their parents might've worked from home, too. This was all to avoid catching the virus from other people outside the home.

Lots of people helped their neighbors throughout the pandemic. First responders, like healthcare workers, police officers, and firefighters, kept people healthy and safe; essential workers such as grocery store employees, delivery drivers, and postal workers worked in-person to make sure other folks had what they needed to live.

Nearly 190 million people in the world have been infected by COVID-19, and more than four million people have died. But the good news is that the number of people getting the virus in the United States is going way down, thanks to testing, vaccines, and other preventative measures, like wearing masks and social distancing.

The Dark Knight

Trapped alone in a dark cage was unusual for the greatest knight in the land. However, this was reality now. His cage was small, and the damp smell stung his nostrils. His food was moldy, and the water was muddy. To be defeated by an enemy and dragged back to their home was an absolute disgrace. The Dark Knight had to escape.

Over a three-day period, he had managed to craft a small knife out of stone. He used this to chip away at one of the bars. As the sun began to set, the Dark Knight made his escape. His heart beat with every sound and sweat ran off his nose. The derelict conditions had drained his energy, but he knew now was his opportunity. Out of nowhere came a small voice. “I’ll help you,” said a young boy.

“Follow me,” he continued. The Dark Knight had no option but to follow. The boy moved with haste and knew the streets like the back of his hand. At the edge of the city, he pointed to the forest. “Run through the forest for 2 days and you’ll find your home,” whispered the boy as he grinned ear to ear.

The Dark Knight made his way home and was greeted with cheers and applause. The greatest fighter in the land had escaped death and made it home, ready to fight another day. The King welcomed him into the castle and prepared a great feast.

“How did you escape?” questioned the king.

“I was helped by a young boy and...” before he could finish his sentence, he saw a picture on the wall. “That’s the boy who helped me, the one in that picture.”

“That’s Prince James,” said the king, “he died 5 years ago...”
